Per Capita Income and Population by County

According to the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis the 2016 Tennessee per capita personal income was $43,326, up 2.8 percent from the previous year. The United States per capita personal income was $49,246 up 1.6 percent from 2015.

Per capita personal income is defined as the annual total personal income of residents divided by the residential population as of July 1. Personal income is derived by summing the net earnings, rental income, personal dividend/interest income, and transfer payments by place of residence. Personal income excludes federal income tax deductions and other personal taxes and is reported in current dollars. In simpler terms, it is the total income on the front page of your 1040 tax form. This data can be influenced by large growth (or decline) in population, natural disasters (i.e., flooding or hurricanes), commuting populations (those that primarily work in other counties), and state and local taxes.

Per Capita Income

In 2016, the Tennessee counties with the highest per capita personal income were Williamson County ($90,979), Davidson County ($58,283), Fayette County ($50,209), Hamilton County ($48,053), Knox County ($46,305), Shelby County ($46,234), Wilson County ($43,650), Sumner County ($43,951), and Loudon County ($43,868). These nine counties are the only ones with per capita income greater than the state average. Four of those counties are in the Nashville MSA. In 2016, only Williamson, Davidson, and Fayette counties have per capita income greater than the United States average. In 2010, the counties with the highest per capita income were (in order): Williamson, Davidson, Fayette, Shelby, Hamilton, Montgomery, Knox, and Trousdale.

The counties with the lowest per capita income were Bledsoe ($20,353), Lake ($23,849), Hancock ($24,256), Lauderdale ($26,994), Van Buren ($27,268), Scott ($27,435), Wayne ($27,520), Morgan ($27,978), and Jackson ($28,273). In 2010 the ranking (from the bottom) was Lake, Bledsoe, Hancock, Lauderdale, Hickman, Union, Wayne, and Lewis.

Population Estimates

In 2017, Tennessee had a population of 6,715,984, up 369,879 from the 2010 Census. This is a growth rate of 5.8 percent since 2010.

The counties with the greatest population are: Shelby County (936,961), Davidson County (691,243), Knox County (461,860), Hamilton County (361,613), Rutherford County (317,157), Williamson County (226,257), Montgomery County (200,182), and Sumner County (183,545). In the last two years the population in Shelby County decreased by 924. Since 2015, there were increases in Rutherford County (19,237), Williamson County (14,801), and Davidson County (9,958). These three Nashville MSA counties increased 43,996 or 35.1 percent of the entire state's population increase. The counties with the least population are: Van Buren County (5,742), Moore County (6,384), Hancock County (6,600), Lake County (7,468), and Clay County (7,703).

There were 21 counties that had a population decline over the previous two years. The largest decreases were in Lauderdale County (down 1,666), Shelby County (down 924), Weakley County (down 509), Haywood County (down 400), and Hardeman County (down 336). The largest three-year percentage growth was in Trousdale County (up 25.4 percent) followed by Williamson County (up 7.0 percent), and Rutherford County (up 6.5 percent).
